AT THE COAL MINE

A mine is hole in the earth; people dig mines to look for rocks, such as coal. Some mines have tunnels that go deep under the ground. A miner is a person who works in a mine. Some coal mines work in dark tunnels, deep under the ground. A mine is a dangerous place. Miners wear special clothing to keep safe. Once coal mining was done by hand. Miners worked in the dark for many hours. They dug the coal out with hand tools. Today, mining is done with machines. There are important safety rules in mines.

Rule-1 : miners must be able to breathe fresh air.

Rule-2: Strong beams hold up the mine roof so that it will not fall on the miners.

After the coal is cut, it is taken out of the mine. A moving belt carries the coal out of the mine. Not all coal miners work under the ground. At the power station, the crush coal is burnt.
